| D. Whitelock, J. Taylor,
T. O'Shea, E. Scanlon, R. Sellman, P. Clark and
C. O'Malley | 1 Challenging models of elastic collisions with a computer simulation |
| Rolland Viau and
Jacques Larivée | 11 Learning tools with hypertext: an experiment |
| Ronald A. Singer | 17 Circuit II—a conversational graphical interface |
| Hyacinth S. Nwana | 27 An approach to developing intelligent tutors in mathematics |
| Rod Nason | 45 PRODIGY: diagnosis and remediation in the domain of common fractions |
| P. David Mitchell and Peter D. Grogono | 55 Modelling techniques for tutoring systems |
| Yibing Li | 63 Finding reusable components in Smalltalk-80 |
| Julie-Ann Sime and R. R. Leitch | 73 A specification methodology for intelligent training systems |
| Patricia Fung | 81 Do-it-yourself student modelling |
| Simon P. Davies
and Adrian M. Castell | 89 Embodying theory in intelligent tutoring systems: an evaluation of plan-based accounts of programming skill |
| Alberta Bertin, Fabio Bucioli
and Cristina Lanza | 97 Intelligent training systems in industrial environments: approach and solutions to high risk task training |

Jonathan H. Briggs, Chris Tompsett and Nick Oates	105	Using rules to guide learners through hypertext
Paul Brna	111	Teaching Prolog techniques
Geoff Cumming, Roland Sussex and Samantha Cropp	119	Learning English as a Second Language: towards the "Mayday" Intelligent Educational System
R. J. Hendley, C. D. Whittington and N. Jurascheck	127	Hypermedia generation from domain represent- ations
Pentti Hietala	133	Teaching AI through Prolog programming tech- niques
Dominique Py	141	Geometry problem solving with Mentoniez

Number 2

Marianne G. Handler	147	Preparing new teachers to use computer tech- nology: perceptions and suggestions for teacher educators
David R. Mottram, Philip H. Rowe and Ian M. Stanley	157	ENPHARM: self-scoring computer-assisted learning for pharmacists
Philip H. Rowe, Rosemary Baker and David R. Mottram	163	PHARMLEX: a computer-based training program on pharmacy law
Lily Shashaani	169	Gender-based differences in attitudes toward computers
Sheung-Lun Hung, Lam-For Kwok and Raymond Chan	183	Automatic programming assessment
Vasilios Makrakis	191	Gender and computing in schools in Japan: the "we can, I can't" paradox
John Todman and Gail Dick	199	Primary children and teachers' attitudes to computers
Book Reviews	205

Number 3

Roy Rada, Sharon Acquah, Beverley Baker and Phillip Ramsey	225	Collaborative learning and the MUCH system
---	-----	--

Anthony Anderson, Andrew Tolmie, Erica McAteer and Ayal Demissie	235	Software style and interaction around the microcomputer
Leslie J. Francis	251	Measuring attitude toward computers among undergraduate college students: the affective domain
Mark A. Horney	257	Case studies of navigational patterns in constructive hypertext
Chuansong Wu, Chunming Wen and Lin Wu	271	A microcomputer-controlled welder training system
Software Review	275
Book Reviews	277

Karen Biraimah	283	The non-neutrality of educational computer software
Kwok-Wing Lai	291	Minimal computer technologies and learner-centred environments: some New Zealand experience
Miky Ronen, Bat-Sheva Eylon, Ofra Rivlin and Uri Ganiel	299	Designing and using an open graphic interface for instruction in geometrical optics
Editorial	iii
M. Er	311	Structured programming techniques: a study of relative complexity—some programming considerations
R. Wayne Headrick	315	Structured programming complexity revisited (a response to the paper by M. Er)
Book Reviews	317
Foreword	v	Papers from the IEA study "Computers in Education" (CompEd)
Willem J. Pelgrum and Tjeerd Plomp	323	The worldwide use of computers: a description of main trends
Alfons ten Brummelhuis and Tjeerd Plomp	333	Lessons from two Dutch projects for the introduction of computers in schools
Henry Jay Becker	341	Decision making about computer acquisition and use in American schools

Ingeborg Janssen Reinen and Tjeerd Plomp
